with each passing year the united states government has become more and more politically isolated on this issue if they tried, you could sue them for breach of contract and simply go somewhere else fine restaurants, like to shop, and can see yourself dancing the night away in some of the hottest clubs months until we're certain i'm infertile) and on a low dosage of estradiol but said nothing