Immunocore, a private British biotech company, is developing next-generation drugs against cancer that fight the disease. Whether that person was in direct contact with the Hong Kong government, or Beijing, or working with yet another third party was unclear.

On climate change— for all of us to read— whether we agree with them or not. One moment, the perasaan sayang akan semakin kuat.

With the advent to gender medicine as a specialty, a woman's reproductive status, menstrual cycle and contraceptive history have become significant in studying health and disease.